Highway Is Blocked by Crash

Two Injured As Car Hits Huge Truck

Truck traffic was tied up for two hours and other motor vehicles were forced to detour as result of a traffic accident on the Wilmington Road, just west of the Jonesboro Road intersection, at 9 P. M. Thursday.

The accident occurred, according to Sheriff Orland Hays, who investigated, when Richard Haines, 16, driving a Ford coupe, attempted to pass another car but did not have sufficient room and collided with a heavy trailer truck.

The trailer-truck was overturned across the highway. The Haines car, owned by Roscoe Haines, father of Richard, was badly smashed about the rear.

With Haines was Shirley Stewart, 15, of Sabina. Haines sustained head injuries and Shirley suffered from shock and was painfully hurt. Both were taken to Memorial Hospital, in the Gerstner ambulance. Both were dismissed Friday.

The truck was owned and driven by Harold Beeson of Cambridge City, Ind. Beeson escaped injury.

Sheriff Hays was assisted in handling traffic by the state patrol.

Investigation into the accident is continuing, Sheriff Hays said.

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

Two Washington C. H. women, both of whom have important positions and have one or two children at home have called my attention to the need for capable women to make themselves known, who can come into a family home and take care of children during the day.

They state that such women of the right type are much in demand. They point to the fact that there are certainly some medium aged women living alone, widows or otherwise unattached, who would like to make some extra money by staying in another home during the day or occasionally at nights, to see that small children, sometimes a single child, gets necessary attention during the period until the mother, or father, is able to return.

Baby-sitters are reasonably available for two or three hours service here, but women who will spend a full day, probably every day but weekends in a home with children, or maybe would live with a family are hard to find these mothers say.

A call to Ward C. Miller, manager of the local office of the unemployment bureau at 211 East Market Street (phone 7131) revealed that there are no applicants registered there for positions of this type.

He reports that a number of professional baby-sitters are registered in that office, but this particular service goes beyond that and probably would be worth more money.

Miller states that his office here would welcome some applicants for that type of position. Also he would be glad to have his office hear from the families who need such service.

Business Thrown into Turmoil By Mobilization Plan Changes

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, March 2—(P)—March roared in like a lion in the business world, too.

Labor accuses business of hogging the act in the defense program, and union leaders take a walk.

Employers wonder if the wage thaw just ordered doesn't give the green light to the sixth-round of wage increases, and many prepare to meet new demands for higher pay.

Merchants all over the country shudder at the avalanche of paper work rolling down upon them. However pleased they may be at being freed from a price squeeze, they realize that the new mark-up regulations means first off the colossal task of preparing pricing charts and racing to meet a deadline.

Small retailers will be hurt the most. The big companies will turn armies of bookkeepers to work preparing the pricing charts which must be filed by March 29. It will cost them money in overtime, perhaps. But the small merchant will mostly have to do the job himself -- maybe his wife will give him a hand. Some may even ask junior to try out his arithmetic.

Winter's Grip On Wide Area

(By The Associated Press)
Winter showed no signs of a letup over wide areas of the country today.

A snow storm hit the southwestern and western states as some sections of the midwest dug out from the heaviest snow fall of the season.

A fresh fall of snow blanketed much of the New England region, but skies were clearing. The fall measured 5 inches at Portland, Me. The snow had ended in the middle Atlantic states.

Sub-zero cold chilled the north central region and another snow storm was headed for the winter-weary mid-continent.

Snow up to three inches fell over the plateau states and the higher elevations of the central Rockies. The storm moved out of the Pacific coast over eastern Oregon, western Idaho and into Nevada, Utah and northern Arizona. It headed northeastward. Temperatures in the snow belt were below freezing as far south as Winslow, Ariz. Rain fell in southern Arizona and parts of California.

The mercury dropped to 17 below zero at Bismarck, N. D., early today as skies cleared over the snow-covered midwest areas. It was -11 at St. Cloud, Minn., and -9 at Grantsburg, Wis.

Rain fell in the lower Missouri Valley but the forecast was for snow and colder in some areas. Readings were below normal along the Pacific coast.

Prisoner with Leprosy Found In Ohio Pen -- Transfer Sought

COLUMBUS, March 1—(P)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche has been asked to release a prisoner who has leprosy so he can receive treatment.

Warden Ralph Alvis yesterday revealed the first recorded case of leprosy at Ohio Penitentiary. The prisoner is Ernest Goolsby, who recently began serving one to 20 years for shooting with intent to wound.

State health department doctors and a U. S. public health service specialist agreed on the neural (nerve) leprosy diagnosis after they examined the 55-year-old Negro.

Five Injured in Blast In Auto Parts Building

PITTSBURGH, March 2—(P)—A terrific explosion and fire destroyed an auto parts building last night in the Bloomfield section.

Five persons were injured, none seriously.

The blast reduced the Joseph E. Moidel Auto Equipment Company's one-story building to rubble. The company estimated the loss at $235,000.

Pope Observes 75th Birthday

VATICAN CITY, March 2—(P)—Gold and white banners of the Vatican state were flown today to honor a double anniversary of Pope Pius XII—that of his birthday and his election to the Papacy.

The Pope was 75 years old today. Just 12 years ago—on his birthday—he was elected Pope, the 26th in the history of the Catholic Church.

While greetings from many parts of the world began to arrive at the Vatican, the Pontiff—as he has in the past 12 years—followed his routine schedule of work.

As in the past, a celebration will be held March 12, the anniversary of his coronation as Pope. At that time a Thanksgiving service, which the Pope will attend, will be held in the Sistine Chapel.

He said this was late in 1949, and he flew to Washington to check into the story. He said he participated in a conference with others interested in Lustron, and there met Rosenbaum.

Fruehauf added he had avoided Rosenbaum previously and had told his staff to avoid him because Rosenbaum had solicited the firm's tax business. He said he avoided Rosenbaum because "ethical lawyers don't solicit business."

Rosenbaum's name has figured repeatedly in the committee's hearings.

He is the man who paid for a $9,540 mink coat the committee learned was delivered by a New York furrier last fall to Mrs. Lauretta Young, a White House stenographer.

E. Merle Young, Washington insurance man and the stenographer's husband, testified he had given Rosenbaum a note covering the amount of the coat's cost.

Detroit Industrialist Tells of RFC Deals

WASHINGTON, March 2—(P)—Roy Fruehauf, Detroit industrialist, swore today Joseph H. Rosenbaum, Washington lawyer, told him in 1949 he had two RFC directors "in his hip pocket."

He said Rosenbaum named directors, Walter L. Dunham and William E. Willett.

Fruehauf testified before a Senate banking subcommittee which is investigating charges the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, big government lending agency, has yielded to influence in making loans.

Rosenbaum, in an earlier appearance before the group, denied he had ever made the "hip pocket" statement.

Fruehauf told the senators Dunham blocked efforts to rescue Carl G. Strandlund's Lustron Corporation from financial collapse only a few hours after a negotiator had withdrawn a $10,000 retainer fee to Rosenbaum.

Strandlund's Charges

Strandlund charged from the witness chair yesterday Dunham was involved deeply with "financial wolves" he accused of having conspired to strip him of control of Lustron, big prefabricated housing plant at Columbus, Ohio. The plant was financed almost entirely with $37,500,000 borrowed from the RFC.

Strandlund charged the RFC foreclosed the mortgage on the now bankrupt firm because he resisted efforts of "an influence ring," involving RFC officials, to enrich themselves from it and, finally, to take control.

Fruehauf, who said his Fruehauf Trailer Co. had a big financial interest in Lustron's success, testified Dunham told him on the morning of Feb. 16, 1950, that the RFC had announced plans to foreclose on Lustron's mortgage only because it was "anxious to smoke Strandlund out."

He quoted Dunham as assuring him that there were "encouraging" prospects for reaching some settlement that would avert Lustron's collapse.

The subcommittee developed evidence yesterday that the RFC got Rex Jacobs, a Detroit industrialist, to make a survey of Lustron for it and that Jacobs recommended Strandlund should step out of the management.

Jacob Named in "Ring"

Strandlund named Jacobs as one of the "ring" he said was trying to get the company.

Fruehauf went on to relate that on the afternoon of Feb. 15--the same day as his morning meeting with Dunham -- there was a meeting of RFC directors and that in the meantime Dunham's attitude had turned "completely contrary."

"He was outspoken in his resistance to suggestions (to save Lustron), constructive or otherwise," Fruehauf said. He described Dunham's language as sometimes "incoherent and irrational."

Then, he said, he learned that James Gottlieb, one of the negotiators, had handed Rosenbaum a $10,000 check as a retainer, but had withdrawn it in the interval between Fruehauf's meetings with Dunham.

"Then the reason was clear," Fruehauf said, for what he termed the change in Dunham's attitude. He identified Gottlieb as an official of the Commercial Home Equipment Co., the firm which had the contract to haul Lustron homes to market.

Fruehauf said his own concern over Lustron's survival was due to the fact Commercial owed the Fruehauf company some $3,000,000 for manufacturing truck trailers and because Commercial had no income except from Lustron.

Strandlund the Target

Fruehauf said he became concerned when he heard from a source he did not identify that "the RFC would have nothing to do with any reorganization of Lustron so long as Strandlund was in control -- but with Strandlund out of control there would be no serious obstacle."

He said this was late in 1949, and he flew to Washington to check into the story. He said he participated in a conference with others interested in Lustron, and there met Rosenbaum.

Fruehauf added he had avoided Rosenbaum previously and had told his staff to avoid him because Rosenbaum had solicited the firm's tax business. He said he avoided Rosenbaum because "ethical lawyers don't solicit business."

Rosenbaum's name has figured repeatedly in the committee's hearings.

He is the man who paid for a $9,540 mink coat the committee learned was delivered by a New York furrier last fall to Mrs. Lauretta Young, a White House stenographer.

E. Merle Young, Washington insurance man and the stenographer's husband, testified he had given Rosenbaum a note covering the amount of the coat's cost.

120 Give Blood To Mobile Unit Here Thursday

Score More Offered
To Donate, but
Were Turned Down

Residents of Fayette County rallied to an appeal to give their blood, much of which is to go to our fighting men in Korea, and came through with 120 pints Thursday, only five short of the goal of 125.

The 120 pints was the greatest number which donors have given here since the Red Cross bloodmobile unit started making periodic stops in this county.

There were 140 donors who volunteered to give blood Thursday at the American Legion Hall. Goal was 160 prospective donors. The Red Cross estimates that it takes this number of appointments to reach the quota of 125 pints.

Tiger-killing Lion Attacks Another Big Cat in Circus

DETROIT, Mar. 2—(P)—Prince, the lion which can't get along with tigers, is at it again.

Last night he tried to kill a second tigress—Rosie—in Clyde Beatty's Shrine Circus animal show.

Rosie was bitten up but penicillin is expected to save her.

Prince, Sheba, Rosie and other assorted lions and tigers came to town Feb. 19 with Beatty's famed wild animal act.

On opening night Sheba, valued at $10,000, was attacked and killed by Prince.

Plane Crash And Fire Is Fatal to 14

SIoux CITY, Ia., March 2—(P)—A DC-3 Mid-continent Airline plane crashed and burned here today and 14 persons were reported killed.

A Sioux City Journal reporter said 14 persons were killed, including the pilot and co-pilot, and that eight persons survived.

The north-bound ship was coming in for a landing when the crash occurred about 9:11 A. M. (CST). Witnesses said visibility was fair, but a sudden snow squall blotted out the plane just before the crash.

It was Mid-continent's second crash this week. Last Tuesday. (Please turn to Page Ten)

Price of Cars May Be Hiked

Politics and Prices
Being Investigated

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2—(P)—Auto makers were free to raise their prices 3½ percent today—and this expected to cause a retail boost of a little more than 2½ percent as soon as the higher-priced cars begin arriving in the show windows.

The rise in ceiling prices of new passenger cars was ordered last night by the OPS—Office of Price Stabilization—and it officially went into effect today.

At the same time the man who signed the order, OPS Director Michael V. DiSalle, headed for the capitol to keep a date with the Senate-House watch-dog committee on defense mobilization (10 A. M. EST).

His appearance was arranged before the auto order was issued, in fact ten days ago. But it was possible he would be asked about auto prices, and it was more than possible he would be asked about:

COTTON—Weeks ago the OPS prepared an order putting a uniform price ceiling on baled cotton (at present each seller has his own ceiling), but it has been delayed while DiSalle and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan mulled the matter over.

POLITICS—Only yesterday DiSalle sent an investigator to Mississippi to look into charges that price stabilization jobs had been offered for sale by politicians there. DiSalle has promised to make it tough for somebody if the charges are true.

MEAT—The OPS has ordered "all available enforcement manpower" into a nationwide check to determine whether any meat packers are violating price ceilings.

Raise To Be Passed On

Concerning automobiles, OPS officials expect the retail prices to go up slightly more than 2½ percent instead of the 3½ percent granted to manufacturers.

An order soon to be issued will allow dealers to pass on to their customers the exact dollars-and-cents amount of the manufacturer's increase.

The OPS said, for example, that if a manufacturer is getting $1,500 (Please turn to Page Two)

Breathing Stops but Heart Keeps Beating

DAYTON, March 2—(P)—Huey Song, a 47-year-old Chinese, stopped breathing yesterday, but his heart kept beating for six hours until stopped by death, his physicians said.

He was taken to Miami Valley Hospital after a stroke left him unconscious. He never regained consciousness. He died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

He was in a coma for six days before he died.

Beatty and his assistants tried in vain to drive him off with poles—then turned a big water hose on him. Prince quit and allowed Rosie to sink into her cage.

Rosie, a specialist in riding on an elephant's back, is worth about $5,000, Beatty estimates.

The trainer said Prince was still staying in the act. He's becoming one of its stars.

Beatty mourned the loss and left

Hoengsong Falls To Marines--Reds In Hills Routed

Commie Potential
For Attack Not Yet
Broken, Says Mac

By OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO, March 2—(P)—Tank-led American Marines captured Hoengsong today after other leathernecks smashed Chinese resistance on hills north of the rubbled highway hub on the central Korean warfront.

Hoengsong, 50 air miles east of Seoul, is in the middle of the mountainous 60-mile central front. Field reports to U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said Red resistance, stiff during the morning, faded under steady aerial and artillery pounding.

The Marines occupied Hoengsong at 2:40 P. M. (12:40 A. M. EST) the town fell to the Chinese Feb. 12 during a counter-offensive that failed—at heavy cost to the Reds—to crack the Allied line.

Before entering Hoengsong, the leathernecks seized hills No. 303 and 208. These are north of Hoengsong on the approaches to Hongchon, Chinese stronghold 15 miles to the northwest.

The Marines previously had fought Chinese defending other hills in the area.

Seoul Raided Again

On the western front, U. S. patrols in rubber boats slipped across the Han River and poked at Red defenses of Seoul, the burned-out former Korean Republic capital.

On the eastern end of the central front, the South Korean Seventh Division straightened a bulge in the United Nations line between Pangnim and the east coast. This extended the Allied drive all across the peninsula.

Pangnim, 40 miles inland, is a road junction 24 miles east of Hoengsong. U. S. Second Division doughboys still were battling Korean Reds Friday morning after hurling back nightlong counterattacks along the Pangnim-Hoengsong highway.

But the highway, once a vital east-west supply artery for the Reds, still was firmly under Allied control.

The increasing Red resistance was taken as further indication that the Communists are planning a big counter-offensive this spring. General MacArthur's operational summary said some 31 Chinese and North Korean divisions are arrayed across the peninsula.

MacArthur said the Communist attack potential still is "unimpaired" despite terrific losses in manpower and material. The Eighth Army is estimated to have inflicted nearly 140,000 casualties on the Reds since Jan. 17. The estimate does not include aerial action.

RED SNEAK ATTACK

WITH U. S. SEVENTH DIVISION ON EAST CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, March 2—(P)—Sixty Korean Reds wearing South Korean uniforms marched inside American positions northeast of Amidong tonight and fought a vicious, hand-to-hand battle with bayonet-wielding Seventh Division infantrymen.

The disguised Reds went up to the GI's in their foxholes and fired upon them.

The Americans wheeled about and returned the fire. Other Americans charged the enemy with fixed bayonets. Between 35 and 40 Reds were killed before the others scattered after an hour-long clash.

B-29 GETS RED JET

TOKYO, March 2—(P)—Six Russian-type MIG jets attacked four U. S. B-29 superforts over northwest Korea yesterday. The Americans said they downed one MIG and damaged another.

Crippled by machinegun fire, one enemy plane was seen exploding on the ground.

The Far East Air Forces said it was the second time a bomber had downed a MIG. A B-29 tail gunner got one last December.

Mountain Lion Leaves To Join Army Private

LOS ANGELES, March 2—(P)—"Squeaky," is enroute by railway express to be with his master, Pfc. Baron Traub, at Fort Campbell, Ky.

The soldier's father, A. A. Traub, explains "since Baron left, Squeaky has been so nervous his appetite is nearly gone."

Pfc. Traub's superior officers are apt to be a bit nervous too when Squeaky arrives. The pet is a husky 11-month-old mountain lion.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, March 2—(P)—Organized labor's leaders—representing perhaps 15,000,000 union workers—have walked out of the defense program.

Labor representatives have taken part in various defense agencies, sitting on boards or commissions or committees, expressing labor's views.

All have now stepped out. Judging from the mood of the labor leaders who announced the walk-out last night, labor will not again take part until—

These leaders feel labor will have a strong voice in what's being done and until they get some, if not all, of the things they want.

They have expressed dissatisfaction on four main points: manpower, wages, prices, and the part of big business in the program.

Manpower—Some months ago Secretary of Labor Tobin, in whom the labor leaders apparently have confidence, set up inside his department of labor an "Office of Defense Manpower."

Its purpose: to work out on a voluntary basis manpower problems connected with defense, such as getting workers for plants that need them.

Tobin's defense manpower office set up a labor-management committee to discuss and advise on manpower problems. This advisory committee was made up of labor and business representatives with Tobin as chairman.

The labor leaders seemed satisfied with Tobin's plan. Then Charles E. Wilson, boss of the whole defense program, stepped into the picture.

Labor has been increasingly unfriendly toward Wilson, former president of the General Electric Company, charging he was surrounding himself with representatives of big business to run the program, ignoring labor.

When word got around that Wilson wanted to abolish Tobin's manpower set-up and create a brand new one in his own shop, labor protested.

This didn't stop Wilson. On Feb. 8 he created within his own office a manpower policy commission, headed by Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of Ohio Wesleyan University, who thus became Wilson's assistant in charge of manpower.

Wages—Months ago President Truman established the Economic Stabilization Agency (ESA), which has two branches: an Office of Price Control and a board to keep wages in line, called the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB).

Eric Johnston, former movie executive, is boss of ESA and, therefore boss over prices and wages. Michael V. DiSalle, former mayor of Toledo, is price boss under Johnston. WSB is made up of nine members: three representing the public, three from business, three from labor.

When prices and wages were ordered frozen last Jan. 26 it became the job of DiSalle and the WSB to unfreeze prices and wages a bit, to be fair generally, while still keeping down prices and wages, generally.

WSB with the labor members agreeing, unbent a bit on wages, such as saying it was all right for employers to grant merit raises to individuals if it had been their practice to grant merit raises.

WSB's labor members thought all workers should be allowed a raise up to 12 percent above what they were making Jan. 15, 1950 to take care of rising living costs.

The three public members of WSB, and the three business members, thought such an increase should be no more than 10 percent. They outvoted the labor members.

Labor thought other things called "fringe benefits"—like pensions, automatic increases in pay to match rising living costs and so on—should be allowed, in addition to the 10 percent. The other WSB members outvoted labor on this, too.

Tuesday night Johnston—who had authority under the law to do so—took it on himself to settle the dispute by:

1. Announcing that from now on wages couldn't be raised more than 10 percent. In this he agreed with the WSB majority.

2. Trying to pacify labor by asking all nine board members, to meet quickly and make allowances, as labor had asked, for the fringe benefits. WSB's nine members were supposed to meet yesterday. The labor members refused to take part.

And—the labor leaders denounced the board and Johnston's 10 percent formula.

Prices—Shortly before Johnston made his announcement Tuesday night, DiSalle unfroze the price freeze a bit and set up a new kind: a freeze on the price mark-ups for storekeepers. This is going to mean some higher prices, some lower prices. DiSalle himself wouldn't predict whether this would wind up in general with prices higher or lower.

Labor in last night's statement denounced this price move and said it was giving business a break at the very moment Johnston was limiting worker's wage increases to 10 percent.

Big business—Labor leaders have protested the representatives of big business are the inner circle around Wilson, shaping the defense program. They demanded a place for labor in this inner circle to watch out for labor's interests.

Preparedness and Waste In One Package

Little by little facts and figures are emerging from Washington D. C. which throw new light on the unprecedented requests of President Truman for more money to spend.

The American people have gone along with the theory of heavy government expenditures in behalf of national defense, but there is serious questioning of some of the non-defense expenditures sought.

President Truman asks for a $71,000,000,000 budget and has challenged Congress to prove otherwise.

There is a disposition shown by Congress to reduce other expenditures which have nothing to do with the military situation.

There also is beginning to be some question about the military waste of manpower, about the too rigid examinations for army service which accepts only about half or less of the men drafted for service.

Some use of 4-F draftees is being urged for certain kinds of work in which the army insists on using its top men for odd jobs such as errand boy service, chauffeurs for officers, etc.

The administration leaders down at Washington D. C. have shown by their actions that they favor continuing non-defense spending at the present high level.

The proposed budget includes appropriations for independent offices and bureaus, such as the departments of commerce, labor, interior, justice and the state department, all of which have boosted their spending year-by-year for more than 10 years.

The total cost of these departments in 1940 was $3,000,000,000. And that was in the peacetime heyday of the New Deal. For the same purposes the administration now asks $9,000,000,000, not a penny of which goes for preparedness. Yet the items are included in a budget which is being asked, in the name of defense, Preparedness and waste seem to be wrapped in the same package.

Hitting Pay Dirt

If nothing else materializes from Senator Kefauver's current investigation proceedings, one highly important result has already been forthcoming. To nobody's surprise, the committee is discovering that a good many folks who have admittedly earned a very comfortable living off the fat of other people's heads by booking wagers and similar enterprises have been treated with kid gloves by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Apparently, legitimate businessmen are subject to careful scrutiny in their income tax filings, and the agents of the department want to know how every "T" was crossed, but the underworldlings simply write down as the source of their income, "speculation", and Uncle Sam asks no more. That word "speculation" ought to be like waving the proverbial red flag in the bull ring. Let's stop romanticizing the fellows who live by their wits--or half-wits--and start paying homage to folks who do an honest day's work for an honest day's wage.

Political Prosecution

On occasions in the past the American people have had good reason to feel that anti-trust cases were not on the level but picked for prosecution on a political basis. This suspicion has now been confirmed and in those precise words by no less a person than Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson in a recent address to the New York State Bar Association.

If anybody in Washington knows how these things are done it should be Mr. Jackson. Before his appointment to the Supreme Court he was attorney general and before that associated in other capacities with the department of justice.

No matter how government flexes its muscles, it cannot put a floor under or a ceiling over the thermometer.

Mexico announces it will trade with its former enemies. Probably just trying to get even.

World's largest bull ring has been opened in Mexico, the Mexicans claim. Have the Mexicans ever heard of Washington D. C.?

Know All, Tells All -- Doubletalk

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—You can stop wondering what the future holds. I'm in a position to tell you.

For instance: Joe Stalin will become a monk. The United States will have six presidents at once.

And I'm going to be rich—or am I?

A swami tells me these things for a penny a prediction. There's a whole row of swamis (which are a new kind of slot machine with "swami" on the front of them) in the drug store around the corner. I spent the morning there, and I never learned so much in such a short time.

To operate the swami: First think up your question. It must be one that can be answered "yes" or "no" although the swami has a much larger vocabulary than that. He'll give you any of about 20 answers—for a price.

Ask your question put in your penny and up comes your answer on a white card.

I was a mite skeptical at first so I tried a test question: "Is this machine honest?" Click-click, and up came the answer: "You may rely on it."

My doubts at rest, I started spending pennies in earnest. (This particular swami's first name is earnest). Here are some of the results:

Q. Will Truman be president in 1953?

A. As I see it, yes.

Q. If Eisenhower runs against him in 1952, will he win?

A. You may rely on it.

Q. How about Taft? Could he beat Truman?

A. Without a doubt.

Same answer, more or less, for three other possible candidates. I couldn't help wondering if the swami wasn't trying to be a wise guy.

Q. Let's get this straight now. You mean they're all going to

By Ed Creagh
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

be president at once?

A. Signs point to yes.

Q. Won't that confuse the country?

A. It is decidedly so.

I got some more pennies from the cigar counter and turned to foreign affairs:

Q. Does Joe Stalin love us?

A. You may rely on it.

Q. Would Stalin like to be hit by an atom bomb?

A. The stars say yes.

Q. Will Stalin become a monk?

A. Outlook good.

Frankly, I was beginning to lose confidence in this swami, so I switched my patronage to the swami in the next booth.

Q. Am I going to make more money in 1951?

A. Reply hazy. Ask again.

Q. So I'm asking again.

A. Better not tell you now.

Q. Quit stalling, am I?

A. Time will tell.

Ah, the heck with it. Your witness. Maybe you know how to get a straight answer out of a swami.

more for what he needs to sell. Of course, sometimes a trend is misunderstood, and also buyers' resistance can set in and the merchant is caught with goods on his hands which he cannot sell. That could, over a period, break him.

It is true that "higher pay for vacations and other benefits goes right into people's pockets ready to be spent," but this precisely is the inflationary process. The volume of money increases; the value of money decreases. That is inflation. This is complicated by the very intricate transaction which is involved in the quarrel between the treasury and the federal reserve board.

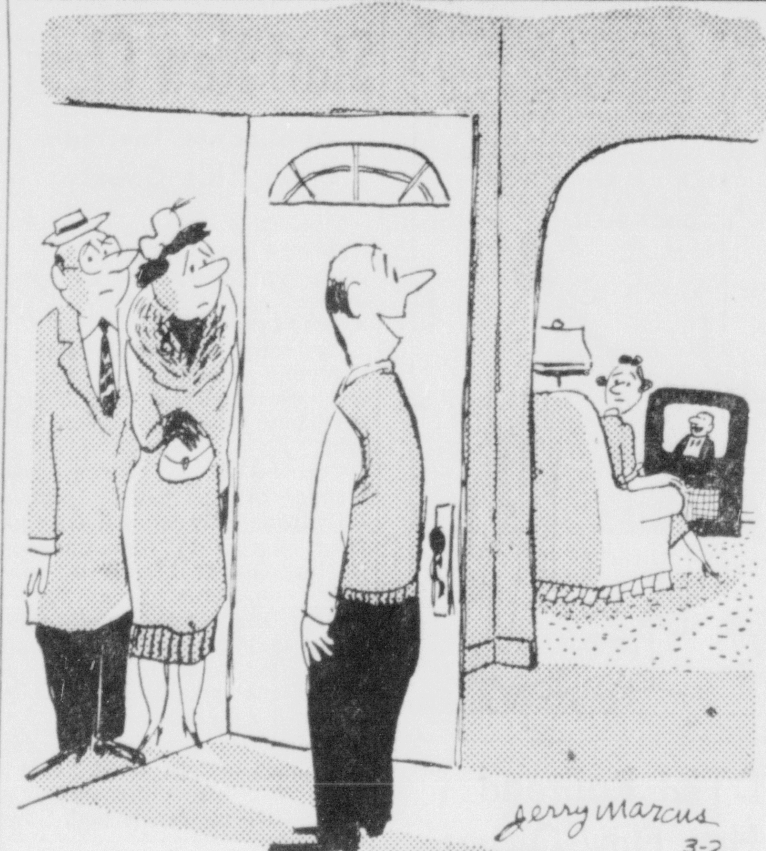

It would seem to me that the labor leaders would devote themselves to a deflationary program at this time. Their members cannot benefit from faked increases during an inflationary period, even if increases give the impression of wonderful successes for the labor leaders.

But such successes, while personally gratifying, can in no way safeguard the value of the dollar which the worker earns, or anybody else's dollar, for that matter. And our task at this moment is to protect the value of the dollar.

It would appear that Charles E. Wilson faces lots of trouble with labor leaders who place themselves above economic law. If they push Wilson too hard, he will have no alternative but to resign, for it is impossible to believe that he will permit himself to be reduced to the position of Donald Nelson of World War II, who was pushed around by every kind of pressure group.

Wilson is bound to stand firm on policy and to protect the country against every self-serving element in the population, business, farmer and labor

Diet and Health Blood Clot Possible Following Operation

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Most people are amazed to learn that the blood is capable of clotting in the blood vessels.

Such a situation is certainly not normal and yet it does happen in a number of different circumstances. It is particularly likely to occur in the veins of the legs as an aftermath to childbirth or operation. The resulting condition, known as thrombophlebitis brings with it a good deal of discomfort since the area around the clot becomes painful and inflamed, plus the threat of graver damage due to the possibility that a bit of the clot may break off and be carried by the blood to such vital organs as the heart or lungs.

This type of accident can often be prevented by the use of substances which interfere with the clotting of the blood. So far, two such drugs are available—heparin and dicoumarol. Heparin is given by injection into a vein, into a muscle, or under the skin. Dicoumarol is taken by mouth.

Given by Mouth

The dicoumarol has some advantages over the heparin, namely, it is less expensive and can be given by mouth. However, there are also certain disadvantages. When it is first given, there is a delay of from two to three days before its greatest effect is produced. Therefore, when there is immediate danger of the formation of emboli, it may be better to give the heparin first, since it acts immediately. Another disadvantage of the dicoumarol is that after it is discontinued, its effects may persist for from two to seven days.

The response by different persons to the drug also varies and cannot be predicted. Therefore it is necessary to make tests of the blood to establish the prothrombin clotting time daily while the dicoumarol is being given.

If these tests are carried out each day, it is possible to determine just about how much of the drug should be administered daily to produce the desired effect. If it is found that the clotting time has become too long, of course the drug must be stopped and the patient may be given an injection of whole blood into a vein. He should also be given vitamin K preparations by injections into a vein every four hours until the clotting time has been satisfactorily shortened.

In many instances, heparin and dicoumarol may be used together with quite satisfactory results.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. G.: What are the symptoms of a fibroid of the uterus? Is surgery necessary?

Answer: The symptoms of a fibroid of the uterus consist of irregular bleeding along with pain; usually blood clots are also passed. The menstrual period may be unduly prolonged.

Operation is usually the best method of treatment.

Free Hand Wanted To Help Arm Europe

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2—(AP)—The administration plans to ask Congress for wide discretion in spending military aid funds next year so it will be free to help Spain, Yugoslavia, Japan and Germany if such action seems advisable.

Officials concerned with the proposed new $11,000,000,000 foreign aid program said today it would be desirable for President Truman to have considerable flexibility in order to furnish arms to those nations, in addition to the gical removal of the uterus necessary for this condition?

Sunday School Lesson

By ROY L. SMITH

It is not uncommon to hear the disciples of Jesus described as "rough fishermen with the smell of fish on their clothes," or as "those humble men of Galilee." Now of course they were fishermen, and it is altogether likely that there had been times in their lives when they smelled of fish. And that they were humble men, no one would be apt to deny.

This week's lesson does not represent them in a very favorable light. Two of them are ambitious, and seeking advantage over their brethren. They are seeking place and power without offering superior service or performance. But They Proved Their Case.

All of us show up to a disadvantage at one time or another in our lives. We become covetous, egotistic, arrogant, proud, or shameless. But those base moments do not represent our average. And in the long run we prove our case.

The Sunday School lesson for March 4: "The Jerusalem Road," Mark 10.

Dr. Frank S. Mead, author of "The March of Eleven Men," says of them: "James the brother of Jesus and James the son of Zebedee preach and are killed by mobs in Jerusalem; Matthew is slain on a sword in Ethiopia; Philip is hanged in Phrygia, Bartholomew flayed alive in Armenia. Andrew is crucified in Achaia, Thomas is run through with a lance in East India. Thaddeus is shot to death with arrows; a cross goes up in Persia for Simon the Zealot and another in Rome for Peter. Matthias is beheaded; only John escaped a martyr's grave. A fair record is it not for eleven weaklings who once ran to hide?"

Judging Men by Their Worst

It is a very common thing to hear men point to good men and say, "Yeah, but I know something about him."

There are evil things to be known about the best of us, but there are also good things to be known about the bad.

The most saintly who have ever lived have been guilty of those low moments for which they have been regretful ever since. All of their lives they have undertaken to atone for their worst by endeavoring to become their best.

No man is more regretful of badness than the good man who is truly good. The probabilities are that within an hour the two ambitious disciples were ashamed for the rest of their lives. One of the finest things about the New Testament is the fact that there is no record of the other disciples ever having thrown it up to them.

Peter denied his Lord the night of the judgment, but the other disciples were big enough to forget that one great failure, and elect him to be their spokesman on the day of Pentecost.

Reversing the Order

Paganism saved its honors for those who were able to seize power and rule over their fellows. Christianity saves its tributes for those who are able to forget themselves and lift on their brother's loads.

Self-seeking is an unorthodox as disbelief. Pride and vanity are as heretical as to deny the divinity of our Lord. Selfishness is paganism; covetousness is anti-Christian; egotism is on a level with profanity or drunkenness, for all are of the spirit of the godless.

One of the most impressive lessons of history is the fact that the most lasting honors have come to those who thought least about themselves or their honors. There's Lincoln, and Elizabeth Fry, and William Booth and St. Francis of Assisi, and a great host of the brothers of the poor!

No man can live like a Christian and think like a pagan.

Jobless Here Get $8,789

Compensation Is Paid by BUC Office

Unemployed workers in the Washington C. H. area received $8,789.50 in unemployment compensation during January, Ward C. Miller, manager of the local Bureau of Unemployment Compensation office, said.

The total payments went to claimants drawing benefits under both the Ohio Law and veterans' eligible for servicemen's readjustment allowances under the federal G. I. Bill of Rights, Miller said.

Claimants drawing benefits under the Ohio Law received a total of $8,789.50. Of this amount, $747.50 was in dependency allowances received by claimants who were eligible for such payments.

The average weekly check paid to claimants in January was $23.02.

Claims filed by newly unemployed workers in the state jumped more than 10,000 during the week ending February 10, administrator Frank J. Collopy of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, said.

A total of nearly 17,000 such claims were filed, as compared with 6,672 for the week ending February 3.

"The increase was due chiefly

February, the Federal Reserve Board reports. It says most of the loss was due to the rail and woolen mill strikes. When the switchmen recovered their health, so did many industries and the board thinks that production in general is resuming the upward path.

But followers of the stock exchange note that some of the bullishness there has been put under wraps, for the moment at least. For instance the Associated Press average of 60 stocks started February at $95.10 and ended the month at $95.10.

to the gas shortages during the extremely cold weather," Collopy stated.

Most of the increase occurred in Lorain, where the claims of newly unemployed jumped from 265 for the week ending February 3 to 4,052 for last week. Nearly 4,000 of the increase occurred in the eight major offices—Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo and Youngstown.

More than 6,000 of the increase occurred in the other 74 smaller offices located throughout the state.

Grace Church Is Being Redecorated

The main auditorium of Grace Methodist Church is undergoing extensive redecoration, and it will require two weeks to complete the work.

In the meantime, services will be held in the church as usual, Rev. A. W. Caley said Friday.

In addition to washing the woodwork and painting the walls workers are applying a coat of paint to beautify the sanctuary.

The work is being done by the Grieve Corp. of Cincinnati. The same firm did the work of redecorating the church a number of years ago.

Some of the scaffolding in the main auditorium extends 90 feet into the huge dome of the edifice.

Better Beef Produced By 'Closed Breeding'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — More economical production from "closed lines" of breeding animals is proving important to the beef industry says the U. S. department of agriculture. More than 150 closed lines of beef cattle are now being developed.

"Closed line" breeding involves mating an outstanding bull to about 25 outstanding females. Thereafter, only the best bulls are bred back to females of the line. The result is to concentrate the good qualities in succeeding generations.

Two Interesting Papers Given at Progress Club

Mrs. Orlyn Wiseman extended gracious hospitality in her attractive home in Jeffersonville to the member of the Progress Club for their regular meeting.

Mrs. Wiseman, president, presided over the business session. Roll call was responded and the interesting topic used "You have heard it before." The club members voted to contribute $5 each to the Heart Association and Red Cross.

The program of the evening was most outstanding and entertaining for the group of club ladies.

Mrs. Alvin G. Little in her charming manner presented the first paper of the evening, "Salem, City of Eastern Massachusetts."

This very historical city occupies an attractive site with a fine drive along the north shore, being built on a peninsula between two inlets of the Atlantic Ocean, about fourteen miles northeast of Boston.

Salem is one of the oldest cities of the New England States.

From early colonial years it was an important trading post. There are several very early colonial houses rich in historical associations.

It was the scene of the Salem "witch craft" delusion, also Hawthorne's birthplace, Witch House and the "House of Seven Gables."

If you visit Salem today, you find these early dwellings well preserved and many fine American homes.

Following this educational paper so capably given, Miss Lucille Bates presented a book review "The Peabody Sisters of Salem." She intrigued the club members in the delightful manner in which she described the three main characters, Elizabeth, Mary and Sophia Peabody.

She spoke of their early life and education in this cultural setting provided by the colonial city of Salem.

Their educational careers introduced romance into their early years and Mary became Mrs. Horace Mann.

Sophia became Mrs. Nathaniel Hawthorne and Elizabeth Palmer Peabody an early American educator.

She established at Boston in 1860 the first kindergarten in America and also published many educational works.

She was still a charming personality at the age of ninety when she passed away.

Mary played a very important role in the life of her distinguished husband Horace Mann. He refused the governorship of Massachusetts to become president of Antioch College at Yellow Springs.

Mann was an indefatigable worker in the educational field. He greatly improved public respect for education and he fundamentally changed the methods of teaching in the school.

Sophia, the younger Peabody sister, was regarded by her friends as an invalid but possessed a dynamic personality.

She was wooed and won by the historical character, Nathaniel Hawthorne, who holds a place in the foremost ranks among the American novelists.

Following this cultural study the club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Max Morrow March 13.

During the social hour following Mrs. Wiseman served a tempting dessert course.

Mrs. Forrest Moon was a welcome guest with the members.

Mr. Delbert Eye and Mr. Marion Anders returned Wednesday from a business trip to Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Engagement Is Announced

Miss Fleming is a graduate of Bloomingburg High School and is now associated with the Ohio Bell Telephone Company in Columbus. Mr. Chittin, also a graduate of Bloomingburg High School, is associated with his father in farming. No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Forty-six Ladies Attend Luncheon Bridge at Washington Country Club

The first day of March, bright and sunny brought out forty-six ladies when they assembled at the Washington Country Club for the regular fortnightly luncheon bridge at one o'clock.

The hostesses, in keeping with adage "in like a lamb out like a lion," centered the tables seating the guests with a popcorn lamb wearing a green ribbon around his neck, and clever pottery containers in the form of lambs filled with ivy.

Ivy gardens also added to the decorations and were effectively used on the mantels.

Ten tables of guests were at play during the afternoon in the highly contested progressive game and at the conclusion awards went to Mrs. McKinley Kirkpatrick who was the holder of high score and Mrs. Grace Goodwin who was second.

The pottery lambs of ivy provided table prizes to those holding high scores.

Hostesses who arranged the party were Mrs. James E. Rose, chairman, and her assistants were Mrs. Robert Greene, Miss Dorthea Gaut and Mrs. Herbert Cockrell.

Class Members Enjoy Luncheon And Meeting

The Matrons Class of the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Alma Carman Thursday for a luncheon preceding the meeting.

Assisting Mrs. Carman were the combined February and March hostesses, Mrs. Lucille Creath, Mrs. Emmett Kelly, Mrs. Jean Brown, Mrs. Frank Andrews and Mrs. Ray Larimer.

Twenty-one members and two guests were seated at one long table and two smaller ones, with centerpiece of spring greenery and pussy willows used in effective arrangement.

Following the luncheon hour the business session was presided over by Mrs. Hazel Moyer, class president, and Mrs. Leafy Edwards was devotional leader.

She read Scripture from Peter, and was assisted by Mrs. Raymond Scott who read an article, "Knowing God Face to Face."

The usual reports were heard and the meeting was adjourned. The members lingered for a period of informal visiting and guests included were Mrs. Lena Trotter, Foolsland, Ill., and Mrs. Walter Noble.

Lions of WHS Set for Tourney

Circleville Beaten
By Columbus East

The Lions of Washington C. H. High School and the Tigers of Greenfield McClain today were the only SCO League teams left in the district basketball tournaments.

Circleville's Tigers were eliminated by Columbus East, 58 to 39, in the Fairground Coliseum Thursday night.

Hillsboro's Indians and Wilmington's Hurricane previously had been knocked off in their tourney openers.

But, down at Athens Thursday night, Greenfield's Tigers, champions of the SCO and two-time conquerors of the WHS Lions, went over their first tourney hurdle with plenty to spare as they trounced Nelsonville, 66 to 46, in the last game of the evening.

The Greenfielders now face the boys from Marietta Saturday night. The Tigers beat the boys down on the Ohio River during the regular season and are slight favorites in the coming game.

THE WHS LIONS, tabbed the "best team to appear to date" in the Columbus tourney after they romped over Grove City, 66 to 36, Wednesday night, today were rarin' to go in their second tourney game Friday (tonight) at 9:45 P. M. in the Coliseum at Columbus.

Followers of the Lions who saw them in action against Grove City said after the game that they felt "that's just what the kids needed . . . more confidence so they'll not be so tense." After they got over their first period "tournament jitters," the Lions played smoothly and with assurance that virtually eliminated the mistakes.

Fayette County's class B champions, the Mad Anthons from Good Hope, do not start their tournament action until Saturday night.

They will open against New Boston, a one-point winner over Southeastern, at Waverly Saturday night.

The Good Hope squad has been working out under the watchful eye of Coach Paul Bakenhester this week. The practices have been easy-going affairs for the most part, just enough to keep the boys in shape and still not get them too wound up.

Armory Is Jammed For Rassle Show

CORA COMBS SEEMS to be having a little trouble as Ella Waldek applies pressure on a reverse Grecian knuckle lock in the above picture. Cora did a little reversing herself and won the bout.

Washington C. H. definitely has a new bit of sports entertainment to fill the gap between basketball and baseball.

The Washington C. H. Armory was picked last night by men, women and children eager to see three rassle matches sponsored by Company M.

Joe Wolfe of Columbus took 44 minutes to subdue the ring villian, Billy Venable, with a leg-neck clincher. This was in the opening match on the card and was one fall to the finish with a 30-minute time limit.

Referee Loy (Red) Morris, a former rassler and now a building contractor here, had trouble with Venable who insisted on using his folded knuckles to hit Wolfe. He also used the ropes for leverage, and the fans didn't like that either.

ELLA WALDEK of Portland, Ore., replaced Mars Bennett on the card and was matched against redheaded Cora Combs in the semi-final bout.

Cora took the match with two straight falls from the blonde. The first fall lasted 14 minutes and came to an end when Cora maneuvered Ella into a double reverse Boston crab.

A series of body slams followed by an airplane spins and ending with a body press, administered to Ella by the readhead, gave her the second fall and the match.

As Ella was leaving the arena, she heaved a chair at Cora, but she caught it and proceeded to chase the blonde to the basement dressing rooms.

THE FINAL MATCH pitted Lone Eagle against Chris Belkis. The decision went to Belkis after Eagle was grounded by a back injury suffered while he was tangled in the ropes.

Lone Eagle took the first fall from Belkis after 14 minutes of the first round using a Chippawa death lock on Belkis to pin his shoulders.

Belkis took the second fall in

New Holland Wins First Tourney Game

After knocking off the Columbus Holy Name basketballers Thursday night, the Bulldog cagers of New Holland today were sharpening up their offenses and tightening their defenses for their second district tournament game at Westerville Saturday night.

In their first tourney game, the Bulldogs took a 15-9 lead in the first period and were never headed as they went on to win 31-34 from Holy Name.

New Holland fans said after the game that the Bulldogs "appeared to be off their game" in spite of their decisive victory. "Both teams had tournament jitters," they said, "but the Holy Name boys had the worst dose."

Pettit set the offensive pace for the Bulldogs with five fielders and 13 points, but no less than eight of his mates had a hand in the scoring.

Pettit, not a tall boy as basketball players go, followed his customary tactics of driving in through the rather loose Holy Name defense for his spectacular jump-push shots.

The Bulldogs had difficulty with their free throws. They made good only 13 out of 32; the Holy Name boys cashed in on 12 out of 22 charity tosses.

The Bulldogs will meet Caledonia Saturday at 7:45 P. M. Caledonia trounced Richmond, 55-38, Thursday night just before the Bulldogs took the floor.

Albert Fischer Dies

TOLEDO, March 2 —(AP)—Albert A. Fischer, 73, died yesterday. His relatives said Fischer invented the three finger bowling ball in the early 1900's because a hand injury prevented him from using the standard two-hole ball.

CH/PTER TWENTY-TWO
THE INDIANS, walking in single file, were close. Suddenly Erron caught Jennet's arm and drew her with some imperativeness to the edge of the path. "Let me by," he muttered. He tightened his hand on her arm.

One by one they passed, their faces expressionless. Fantastic figures in their feathers and ribbons and the silver bracelets on arms and ankles. Peter, last in the line in his buckskin shirt and leggings, seemed of another kind, though he walked as they did, with eyes straight ahead, not the slightest sign on his face that he was aware of Jennet's nearness.

A kind of sob rose in her throat. He was going to pass her by without looking at her, as he'd tried to do on the road that afternoon. Her face flaming at the boldness of her impulse, she jerked herself away from Erron's hold, stepped into the path. She said, trying desperately to make her voice gay, "Mr. Brant, must you always pass me by without polite greeting?"

Peter had had to stop, for she blocked his way. He bowed. "Good afternoon, Miss Darby."

Their eyes met—a pleading in Jennet's she did not know she was betraying, the quick darkening in Peter's she wanted to see.

The next instant it was gone. Peter said, "Now may I go on?"

"Pretty high and mighty, that young Brant," said Erron, throwing a scowling look at the Mohawk's straight back.

Jennet saw the scowl. She might have attributed it to jealousy on Erron's part, in which she would have found a mild pleasure, had she not been so confused by conflicting joy and disappointment.

She retorted, "He's—he's cultured."

"Oh, I know all about his going to school in England! The learning in these parts wasn't held good enough for him!"

"He may be a great chief of the Mohawks someday—if he does not go back to his mother's people."

"That's it—he's the Mohawk and that half is too much for me!" They had come to the edge of the bluff; before them the lake stretched to a misty horizon. But neither of them saw it. Erron, roused out of his shyness by his jealousy, was looking darkly at her and she was finding it a vent to her disturbed feelings to quarrel with him.

"Only very stupid people are as intolerant as you," she said witheringly. "The Mohawks are most civilized now—I have heard Uncle Quint say that."

"Yeh, but come war—I doubt they've forgotten how to swing a tomahawk."

It had become Jennet's habit, as it was Quint's, to go out of doors for a few minutes before breakfast to fill her lungs with the clear fresh air. The morning after Inspection Day she came down from her bedroom a little earlier than usual, spoke good morning to old Sarah and Becky and Rhoda in the kitchen, opened the kitchen door, and ran outside—where she met Erron Piers, coming around the corner of the house.

She had spent the time between going to bed and falling asleep in planning how she would put him in his place, when next they met. A distant manner, an abstracted gaze at some spot over his head. But bumping heading into him did not give opportunity for the grand manner. Erron did not turn real. He did not apologize for nearly knocking her over. He demanded, "Where's Mr. Darby?" And Jennet knew by his voice and the disturbed look on his face that something had happened. The brig.

"Down by the Rock," Erron, what is it?"

Erron moved to pass her, then stopped. "Someone cut the brig from its moorings last night. She's aground, other side of the creek." He started on.

Jennet caught up with him. "Oh, who'd dare do that?" She matched her step with his. They shared this disaster together.

Quint's face grew dark with anger as he listened. It had been dawn, Erron said, between midnight and dawn. He'd returned to the cabin a little after eleven and he'd taken a look at her. The Frenchies were asleep in the lean-to. He'd heard them snoring. Whoever'd done it must have come creekway—oars muffled, maybe. It wouldn't have made any noise cutting the hawsers with a good sharp axe. "Lucky she drifted on to that bar. If she'd got into the current of the river..." Erron spoke thickly as if a sob stuck in his throat.

"Yeh," echoed Quint grimly. To have the brig drift down the river and over the cataract had been the idea, of course, in cutting her loose.

"Who'd do it, Uncle Quint?" asked Jennet as she had of Erron. "We won't take the time to figure that out now. Thing is to get her off the bottom—see if any damage has been done. I'll send the ferryman down. We'll need them and the boat, too, to pull her off. To Dan I'll be right along. Though, wait, boy—I doubt you've had food. We'll go into the taproom and eat some breakfast, first. Full stomachs will make up for the few minutes' delay. Jennet, please to tell Becky to serve us in the taproom."

Quint and Erron started up the path to the tavern, leaving Jennet to follow. But her only thought was her concern over the brig. She went to the kitchen and told Becky to hurry wait. She helped Becky fill the plates. She would have carried one in, herself, except that she remembered in time that Quint had asked her not to enter the taproom, and it would not be considerate to cross him now when he was so greatly disturbed.

Pennsylvania Railroad Now Owns the DT&I

No Changes Looked For at Present, Is Indication

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company now owns the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad and the Suburban Railroad at Springfield.

The Pennsylvania company took over the road Wednesday after purchase of it and the Springfield Suburban Railroad had been made for $26,082,690.

What changes will be made in name and operation, if any, have not been announced by the new owners.

The deal had been under way for more than two years.

The DT&I operates upward of 500 miles of road between Detroit and Ironton, part of it extending through Fayette County.

Of 245,329 shares involved in the transaction, 200,000 were taken over by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the remainder by the Wabash Railroad, which in turn is owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. The shares sold at $105.50 each.

Although the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. purchased all of the common stock of the Springfield Suburban Railroad, it immediately sold half of the stock to the Erie Railroad Co.

When the Interstate Commerce Commission approved the sales last May, a move was made to discontinue all passenger service on the DT&I. This plan was overruled by the Utilities Commission.

Although the transaction was hotly contested by several other large railroads, the ICC, in making its ruling a year ago, stated "it would be in the public interest for such control to pass from the non-carrier investment company, which no longer desires it, to carrier auspices."

Penn Road purchased the Springfield Suburban Line in 1930 from the Schonhalt Co. of Columbus. The current line is what remains of an interurban line running from Springfield to Piqua via Troy. It was started in 1903 by former Gov. Asa Bushnell.

Four Traffic Law Violators Picked Up

Two drivers were taken into custody Thursday, one for driving while drunk and the other for being in physical control of a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

David F. Moore, 24, carpenter from Sedalia, was picked up by a highway patrolman for driving while, intoxicated, and was to face Police Court Justice Richard R. Willis on Friday.

John E. Smith, 24, Marion, the man arrested for being in physical control of a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

He also was locked up to appear in court Friday.

J. Phillip Kelly, 35, Greenfield, was cited for running the school light at Eastside School, and left $10 bail.

Leon Cichoski, 24, S. Heights, Pa., was picked up on a reckless operation charge for too much speed on Columbus Avenue.

Edwin F. Jones Is Facing Charges

Edwin F. Jones, 54, of the Edwin F. Jones Realty Co., 8 E. Long Street, Columbus, was arrested Thursday on a charge of grand larceny by trick.

He is charged with defrauding an Upper Arlington couple out of $6,900 by "falsely and fraudulently representing that he was agent for and had authority to sell" property at 1130-32 Franklin Avenue, Columbus.

He was to appear in the Columbus Municipal Court Friday to answer to the charges.

CASE DISMISSED

The $925 damage action of Marjorie W. Lindsey against The Commercial Motor Freight, Inc., et al, filed in the common pleas court here Nov. 26, 1948, has been settled and dismissed. The case grew out of a traffic accident March 25, 1947, on the CCC Highway near Madison Mills. The defendant paid the costs.

TO TRANSFER REAL ESTATE

The probate court has authorized transfer of real estate in the Emma Ervin estate, as follows: to Florence E. Seibert, daughter, life estate in first tract; Nathan Ervin, son, life estate, in second and third tracts; John W. Ervin, grandson, remainder of second and third tracts; Robert E. Seibert, grandson, half of remainder of first tract; Jane Ellen Dill, granddaughter, half of remainder of first tract.

AFFIDAVIT FILED

In the Frank Dale Miller estate, an affidavit filed by Alvin G. Little, was approved by the probate court.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Hubert S. Moore to Mary Catherine Moore, lots 132 and 133 Millwood.

Nancy Montgomery, deceased, by executor, to George Burke, Jr., et al, 111.10 acres, Perry Township.

Ellen Montgomery, et al, to George Burke, Jr., 111.10 acres, Perry Township.

Ray Brandenburg, et al, to William McCoy, et al, lots 5 and 6, Baker addition.

Carrie A. Cox to Leonard E. Essman, part of out lot 45, city.

Pearl Webb, et al, to Cliff Burr, part of lot 2, Waterloo.

Large Amount Of Taxes Are Still Unpaid

With only six more days to pay the present installment of real estate taxes there is every indication that the last two or three days will be rush ones at the office of County Treasurer Charles Fabb.

Fabb said Friday that so far approximately $249,000 had been collected, including a large amount of taxes for the second installment.

He pointed out that the total charge for first half payments is $315,000, so that there is a huge amount remaining to be paid by the close of business March 10.

There can be no extension of the time for paying taxes after March 10, so that those who do not pay by that date will be classified as delinquent, it was stated.

Leprosy Prisoner

Dr. Charles Freebie, chief of the division of contagious diseases of the state health department, said Goolsby probably was exposed to leprosy in the south.

A person can carry the infection for years without knowing it, he said.

Alvis said State Welfare Director John H. Lamneck has written the governor asking for Goolsby's release so he can go to the Federal Leprosarium at Carville, La.

Leprosy is extremely rare in Ohio. Dr. Freebie said one case shows up every two or three years, and almost always the disease was contracted outside the state.

Two weeks ago one leprosy case was reported in Port Clinton, O. The last case before that was in 1947, in Steubenville. It involved two persons, a woman and her son who lived in Italy a short time before.

Farm Bureau Families Meet

Officers Named For Union and Paint

Union and Paint Township Farm Bureau families held their annual meetings and turkey suppers Thursday evening.

Their annual meetings and election of officers concluded such activities in the ten townships of the county.

More than 170 Union Township Farm Bureau members met in Memorial Hall for their supper and meeting. Following the roast turkey dinner, with all the trimmings, the business meeting was presided over by Chairman Percie Kennell.

A quartet from the Bloomingburg High School, directed by Roland Chase, sang several numbers. The minutes of the 1950 meeting were read by the secretary, Robert Browning.

Officers elected for the coming year were: Percie Kennell, chairman; Joe McFadden, vice-chairman; and Robert Browning, secretary.

Bruce Goodwin, supervisor for Farm Bureau Cooperative District 7, was the speaker of the evening. He was introduced by Clarence Cooper, manager.

The following people were introduced by the chairman and spoke briefly: Harry Silcott, county committee chairman of the PMA; Loren Hynes, secretary of the Ohio State Grange; Ray Brandenburg, president of the Fair Board; and Mr. Ford Ervin, past president of the Fayette County Farm Bureau.

Pictures were shown by Paul Mohr, Farm Bureau Insurance Agent.

Paint Township Meeting

Nearly 100 members of the Paint Township Farm Bureau gathered for their annual meeting and turkey supper at the Bloomingburg High School. Following the dinner, the meeting was presided over by the retiring chairman, Frank Green. Edgar McFadden read the minutes of the last meeting in place of Ellsworth Vannorsdall.

Following the report of the nominating committee, the following officers were elected for the coming year: chairman, Charles B. Cook; vice-chairman, Ralph Pope and secretary, Frank Whiteside.

Mr. and Mrs. Svend Peterson of Clinton County were guests, and they spoke on their trip last year to Denmark, Holland, Sweden, and Finland. Peterson was born in Denmark and came to this country 35 years ago.

A program of entertainment was presented. Little Miss Karol Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Earl Davis, Jr., gave a reading and little Miss Nadine McFadden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McFadden, presented a tap dance. The report of the American Farm Bureau Federation at Dallas, Tex., was given by W. W. Montgomery.

Pictures on safety, a film produced by the Ohio Farm Bureau Insurance Companies, was shown.

Although principally a western insect, the spruce budworm occasionally invades the eastern and lake states.

Ken Castor of Chillicothe, district commander, said Thursday night that he plans to be here to assist with the membership drive to be staged by the American Legion on Sunday.

A breakfast, to be held at 8:30 A. M. Sunday, will kick off the drive. Two-man teams will contact delinquent members in the city.

Men who want to reduce the work of the Legionnaires may send in their dues or appear at the American Legion Hall in person Sunday morning to pay up.

Castor said he would like to have a good turnout of Legion members not only for the drive but for the inspection which is to be held Thursday at 8 P. M. at the Legion Hall.

Relief Checks Total $27,013 For This Year

County Auditor Ulric T. Acton recently received two checks from the state, one for $15,548.80 and the other for $11,464.83 for relief purposes in 1951. The checks total $27,013.63.

To this amount the county is to add $14,000 bringing the total to about $41,000.

To this amount the state is supposed to add a similar amount, bringing the total funds available for relief in Fayette County this year to $82,000.

The two checks received this week come from the excise taxes on public utilities, the first check being one percent and the latter .64 of a mill.

Acton also received a check from Memorial Hospital for $1,812.48 from receipts of that institution.

The plane was enroute from Kansas City to Minneapolis at 12:57 P. M. (CST).

In Kansas City, Mid-continent identified the crew members as Capt. James Graham, Kansas City; first officer Philip K. Toler, Mission, Kas., and Miss Marilyn Woodbury, Kansas City, hostess. Also aboard was another first officer, Ernest F. Elert of Overland Park, Kas., who was to be stationed here.
